PROGRESSIVE CAUSE IN KANSAS LOOKING UP

Mediators' Note Makes Most Impossible to and Square Selves
MEDIATION WAITS ON CHIEF

Carranza Has Everything to Gain and Nothing to Lose, Delegates Assert

Mediation tonight waits on General Carranza. He has in his possession a communication from the three South American diplomatic representatives in the conference here. Upon his word depends whether the entire Mexican problem will be settled by diplomacy or whether the Constitutionalists will continue to fight their way to Mexico City.

The mediators have in a dignified way, smoothed the path for Constitutional participation. The mediators tonight are hopefully confident that General Carranza will send envoys here. Instead of believing the negotiations will be indefinitely prolonged by such a course, they think a pacific settlement will in reality be more quickly obtained as all parties in the Mexican dispute would then be here to shape the program of peace.

There were no conferences today with either the Mexican or American delegates. It may be stated that all principals here would like to see the Constitutionalists enter the negotiations in a spirit of conciliation. There were no obstacles placed in the path of the Constitutionalists by the Huerta delegates.

Just what was contained in the note from the mediators to General Carranza, transmitted today by Rafael Zubaran at Washington to the Constitutional chief, was not revealed here. The mediators said but of courtesy to Carranza the document would not be made public here. An answer was expected for another day or so. It there is some confidence that it will be favorable.

Cannot Refuse to Join Conference. The mediators have not literally invited the Constitutionalists, but the phraseology of the note is such as to pave the way for their entrance to the negotiations. It is in effect a clarification of the misunderstandings which have existed, and it construed in the conciliatory and friendly spirit which the mediators intend to convey.

There is every disposition on the part of the mediators to treat the interests of the Constitutionalists fairly, and with a realization that they dominate now the largest part of Mexico and constitute practically the most important factor in the problem. It is understood that the Constitutionalists have hesitated to favor mediation because of a misconception of the character of the proceedings. They cannot see how the mediators can refuse and square themselves with the public opinion of the world.

The case of Bristow and Curtis in Kansas is a case in point. To the best of my judgment Curtis will win the Republican nomination to the senate in the August primaries. Bristow hasn't a show. This very condition of affairs shows conclusively that the Progressives did not stay in the Republican party and that the parties are widely separated and distinct from each other. If a large number of Progressives had bled back to the G. O. P., then Bristow would certainly see the nomination and this will never be the case.

The conversation drifted on to the inevitable. Colonel Roosevelt was introduced into the talk by the reporter. "Will Roosevelt be the Progressive candidate for president in 1916?" "Well," answered Mr. Allen, "the Progressive party, as all other political parties, has fixed its ideal definitely. We want the most progressive people and principles possible. When we look about for our presidential timber for 1916 we will look for the man who stands above the crowd. And who will that man be?"

Thinks Roosevelt Will Accept. The colonel suggested the reporter. And a trinket of amusement in the eyes of Mr. Allen accompanied a nod of assent.

"But will Roosevelt accept the nomination?" "I think he will," returned Mr. Allen. "Roosevelt is in politics to such an extent that he will never be satisfied outside of it. He will do what his party asks."

He will be in the campaign right from the start this year, too. I received a telegram from him just before I left home in which he stated that he would open the campaign in Pittsburgh, Pa., the afternoon of June 30. I will speak in the same city that night. The Progressive party will wage a strenuous campaign this fall."

Electricity From Coal Edison's Plan

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Thomas A. Edison, who was the guest of honor at the banquet tonight of the National Electric Light Association, declared that 75 per cent of the problems of electricity are still unsolved and that the one thing he would like to accomplish would be the making of electricity from coal without first generating steam. The talking machine, he said, is now practically perfect, but he would like to see the price reduced until anyone could hear grand opera at a cost of only five cents.

Expert Declares Party Will Stick to Its Ideals

The progressive cause in Kansas is certainly looking up. A satisfied smile accompanied this declaration made by Henry J. Allen, Progressive candidate for governor of Kansas. Mr. Allen arrived in Colorado Springs yesterday to deliver the dedicatory address at the Billy Sunday tabernacle last night, when even if the debut, however, the first thing a reporter asked him was to talk a little concerning the political situation as he knew it and seemingly Mr. Allen was not at all averse to giving a little data on the status of the Progressive party. "In Kansas," he continued, "the situation in politics is much the same as in other states. The progressive party is strong and there is not the least sentiment for amalgamation. Several of the erstwhile Progressives who have gone over to the Republican parties, thinking that fusion ultimately would take place, are now sadly left behind. In most every instance, both in Kansas and throughout the other states of the union, the standpatiers have been given the nominations in the Republican party.

Cites Bristow-Curtis Case. The case of Bristow and Curtis in Kansas is a case in point. To the best of my judgment Curtis will win the Republican nomination to the senate in the August primaries. Bristow hasn't a show. This very condition of affairs shows conclusively that the Progressives did not stay in the Republican party and that the parties are widely separated and distinct from each other. ## REBELS' PART IN PEACE MEETING DECIDED TODAY

GARRANZA RECEIVES MEDIATORS' NOTE

Communicates With Agents Before Saying Whether He Will Participate

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Whether the Constitutionalists of Mexico are to participate in peace negotiations at Niagara Falls probably will be determined before another day has passed. Tonight agents of General Carranza, the revolutionary chieftain, were in the city, and a messenger with the Constitutional leader after having forwarded to him the answer of the South American mediators to his message of protest carried to Niagara Falls last week.

Publication of the message of the mediators was withheld here until General Carranza has determined upon his reply. Persons in touch with Constitutional agents ventured the suggestion that the terms upon which the mediators proposed to receive the Constitutionalists into the peace negotiations would be declined.

The note from the mediators, addressed to Mr. Zubaran, reached Washington in the afternoon. As soon as the message was received, Mr. Zubaran, Mr. Vaconcelos and Mr. Uquid of the Constitutional agency began preparations to communicate with General Carranza at Durango by special wire. When the message of the mediators had been forwarded, conferences with their chieftain were begun over the wire.

Will Prevent Discrimination. While amputation for the Constitutionalists was en route today for Tampico from the United States, admission came from the state department of previously reported orders to customs officials not to clear any consignments of munitions of war to Mexican ports. Mr. Bryan said today that there seemed to have been some misconception of the original order, instructing customs collectors not to permit shipments of arms, although he would not agree that this had anything to do with the departure yesterday of the steamer Antilla from New York heavily laden with war supplies for Constitutionalists at Tampico.

Mr. Bryan also explained that this order applied to traffic in arms across the border as well as to that by water, intimating that the purpose of its issue was to prevent any discrimination in favor of the manufacturers who were shipping goods from the eastern Atlantic ports, while their western competitors were stopped from sending their goods by rail into Mexico through Texas under the orders issued some time ago to army officers on the border.

Navy Won't Protect Vessel. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who was acting as secretary of the navy in the absence of Secretary Daniels, said no orders had been given to American naval commanders on the Mexican coast in regard to the treatment of the steamship Antilla when she appears in Mexican waters. This was taken as an answer to the question as to whether the American naval commanders would extend protection to the Antilla in the event some Huerta gunboats, which have been informed of the nature of her cargo, should attempt to waylay the ship.

So far the state department has taken no action upon the notification received today through American Consul Canada at Vera Cruz that the Constitutionalists at Tampico would refuse entry to any vessel whose clearance was not issued by Constitutionalists.

It is believed, however, that the question will become a practical one by the appearance at Tampico of an American vessel demanding entrance under clearances issued by the Huerta consuls in the United States.

4,000 PEOPLE GATHER AT BILLY SUNDAY TABERNACLE FOR DEDICATION CEREMONIES

H. J. Allen Principal Speaker; Choir of 500 Voices Sings 'Onward Christian Soldiers'

The Billy Sunday tabernacle is dedicated. A few more hours and one of the biggest religious campaigns ever waged in the Pikes Peak region will be launched. With song from many throats, and words from the lips of men imbued with fervor for the coming religious campaign, the big frame temple at the corner of Platte and Cascade avenues was formally introduced to the public last night. Henry J. Allen, editor, writer and Progressive candidate for governor of Kansas, told in simple language the story of Billy Sunday and his work. In the words of the speaker, he did not make a defense of Billy Sunday—the evangelist needs no defense. Billy Sunday may be judged by results, said Mr. Allen. Sunday with his "hell-burner" or "blowtorch" and his already started west from Chicago. One glimpse of the tabernacle last night, with 4,000 people gathered there, was enough to convince anyone that the project about to be launched is one of great proportions. The singing of hymns by the 500 voices in the choir and hundreds in the audience went with a swing that bespoke real enthusiasm behind the songs. Already there is a restless spirit of action, a something that seems to prophesy an upheaval of some sort, as the Colorado Springs. The prayer meetings held during the last few weeks have had their effect in arousing the spiritual nature of many men and women.

Building itself interesting. The tabernacle itself is an interesting structure. Every detail in its construction shows the working out of well-directed plans. The walls are comfortable, the ventilation, almost perfect and the acoustic properties excellent.

CONFESSED AUTO THIEF IS ARRESTED AFTER A CHASE

Glen Rudy in Jail, Charged With Taking Dr. D. P. Anderson's Car Out on Parole From Mo. Pen.

Glen Rudy, 19 years old, was arrested by the police last night at his residence, 441 East Kiowa, charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Dr. D. P. Anderson. Rudy is in the city jail and last night confessed that he had stolen another car in Colorado Springs and that he is out on parole from the Missouri state penitentiary, where he was sentenced to two years for a similar offense.

Rudy, from the police, took the car from in front of Dr. Anderson's home at 116 North Cascade avenue. The police were notified and soon located the automobile and gave chase in the police machine. After a breakneck race around the city, Rudy "ditched" the machine at the corner of Weber and Cochran streets and escaped, but was later located at home. The machine was not badly damaged.

This is the second automobile stolen in the last week that the police have recovered. Two boys are now in the county jail awaiting a preliminary hearing on the first theft, which occurred at Stratton park.

WON'T SET NEW TRIALS OF DYNAMITERS UNTIL FALL

INDIANAPOLIS, June 3.—Date for the new trials of Clifford T. Vialmont, of San Francisco, and Richard H. Houlihan, of Chicago, convicted here in the so-called dynamite conspiracy case in December, 1912, who were arrested in rehearing by the United States court of appeals at Chicago today, will not be set until next fall, according to Frank C. Dailley, United States attorney of Indiana. Mr. Dailley said tonight that the docket of the present term of the federal district here had already been made up.

At no point in the great space beneath the roof is the speaking from the platform inaudible. The ushers are legion and already know their duties, so as to work with perfect precision and ease. The audience last night was largely a Christian one. It was composed mostly of the men and women who have had the coming revival on their hearts for a long time. Many of them had been on committees in the interest of the meetings for nearly 15 months. There were some in the crowd, however, who went out of curiosity. Smiles of mild doubt or skepticism showed on the faces of many of those at the enthusiastic statements of some of the speakers. Some seemed to grow a bit restless, as though afraid of being caught under a spell which they wished to avoid.

Altogether the meeting was one to engender enthusiasm for the approaching conference and the arrival of the baseball evangelist. The meeting was opened with a song by the chorus, which made its first public appearance. Although the organization had had little practice as yet, the singing was well unified and the volume great. The chorus will soon hold regular practice under the direction of Homer Rodheaver, Sunday's choir leader.

Mayer Asks for Open Mind. Following the opening song, A. P. Gill, Sunday's advance man and organizer, who has been here for several weeks, gave a short farewell talk to the friends he has made here. He will leave today for his home in Pasadena, Cal., for a short vacation before taking up further work for the evangelist.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by Mayor Charles L. McKee. He also spoke in high terms of the life of Henry J. Allen and his interest in religious affairs.

Mr. Allen is a pleasing speaker. He talks informally and gets the sympathy of the audience at once. He is the editor and owner of the Wichita Beacon, one of the most influential newspapers in southern Kansas. He is a practical business man and has a high degree of efficiency. His address was rather short because he had to catch a train for the east at 9 o'clock. He will speak the latter part of the week at the Iowa State Bankers' association convention at Clinton, Ia.

Mr. Allen told in a compelling and gripping manner the story of his conversion by Billy Sunday at the Wichita meeting in 1911. He began by declaring himself a plain business man and not a religious fanatic. According to him, he comes from a newspaper world where the atmosphere of fact reigns supreme, yet has found that the most practical and usable thing in the business is the religion of Jesus Christ.

Predicts 8,000 Conversions. He gave in detail the methods of Billy Sunday and predicted that 8,000 conversions would be made in Colorado Springs. In Wichita there were 6,000 conversions at the time of the meetings. Since then 7,000 more conversions have been added to that list by the personal work of the church people in Wichita. Through the conservation of the spirit left behind by Billy Sunday the people of the Kansas town have made it the greatest religious center in the world, said Mr. Allen.

Although the speaker refused to make what he would term a defense of the baseball evangelist, yet he did say a few words for him. He declared that he had heard Sunday referred to as a grafter, but that for one he had never seen a graffer work as Mr. Sunday does. He also declared that he had heard the evangelist use unusual language, but never vulgar language. The evangelist's language, he said, was the language of the street because he said that is the only way in which he can reach the man of the street. Mr. Allen wished the workers here success in their meetings and declared that he envied the people of Colorado Springs because of the great campaign they are about to experience.

DIFFERENCES OF MEDIATORS OUGHT TO BE MEDIATED

ORIGINAL PURPOSE OF CONFERENCE LOST

Constitutionalist Agent Believes Present Action Highly Improper

EL PASO, Tex., June 3.—"This seems a good time for a mediation commission to be appointed to mediate the differences of the mediators at the Niagara mediation conference," Roberto Penabaz, confidential agent of the Mexican revolutionists, declared today. "We are appealing," he declared, "to the idea of fair play of the American people."

The original idea of the mediation conference was to settle the differences between the Huerta government and the United States government over the arrest of some sailors and marines at Tampico. With this the Constitutionalist party was in hearty accord. No marines or sailors or soldiers had been arrested in the two-thirds of Mexico controlled by the Constitutionalists and we consider as highly proper any mediation to prevent an armed conflict of two friendly nations.

"But the mediators began to deal with the internal affairs of Mexico and to deal not with Carranza; the commander of the Constitutional movement, but with representatives of the Huerta government, and assisted by the Huerta government, and assisted morally the constitutional revolution."

Have Changed Policies. "Also I wish to recall that the governments of Argentina, Brazil and Chile did not recognize Huerta, and their peoples morally were against the government of despotism and were in favor of the revolution of democracy. Why have these representatives of formerly friendly South American governments altered the position of the countries they represent? Has Latin America suddenly turned against the moral issue which they had supported so firmly during a year of strife which is about to be completely forgotten?"

In the situation in northern Mexico today all awaited the exchange between Carranza and the A. B. C. mediators at Niagara. An armistice virtually existed, especially in view of the report as given out by federal commanders of invited cities that Huerta was about to resign from the provisional presidency. The shutting down of the United States admittedly has had its effect on the revolutionary army which, since the fighting about Saltillo, has been short of ammunition.

The announcement that General Vazquez, now commanding troops surrounding Zacatecas, has been appointed commander of a new central military zone by Carranza, and the coincident movement of General Villa toward the northern border created much speculation here. Carranza was reported as preparing to move tomorrow to Saltillo, while Villa remained at Chihuahua City.

Denver Abolishes Sex Hygiene Dep't

DENVER, June 3.—The name of Mrs. Anna G. Noble, instructor of sex hygiene in the Denver public schools, was dropped from the roll of teachers by the school board at meeting last night. The department is to be abolished, it is stated. A company of women, who attended the meeting to protest, were not aware the action had been taken until told at the close of the meeting that the decision to abandon the department was included in a report adopted but not read in full.

ARBITRATION PLAN DELAYS REPEAL VOTE

Resolution to Submit Dispute to Tribunal Is Favorably Reported in Senate

VARDAMAN ATTACKS WILSON

However Wise in Own Conceit, Can't Forget Pledge and Submit Own Theory

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Just when a vote on the Panama canal toll exemption repeal bill seemed certain to come within a few days, the senate foreign relations committee today complicated the situation by reporting favorably a resolution designed to lead to the submission of the dispute with Great Britain to arbitration by an international tribunal.

There was no discussion of the resolution, but it will be taken up before a vote is reached on the repeal bill itself, and its appearance before the senate undoubtedly will lead to further debate.

So far as administration leaders know, the president is opposed to arbitration, unless the tolls exemption repeal bill previously is passed. It is believed by many senators that without the president's approval no arbitration proposal can receive a majority.

During the debate today, Senator Vardaman, Democrat, of Mississippi, a vigorous opponent of repeal, made an impassioned speech criticizing the president's position and attacking Senator Root, one of the leaders on the opposite side.

The Sutherland resolution provides for arbitration of the differences that have arisen between the United States and Great Britain, under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, in the matter of payment of tolls which may be exacted for the use of the Panama canal.

Regulation Can't Pass. It is proposed under the general arbitration treaty between the two countries, which provides for arbitration of disputes, not affecting national honor, independence or vital interest, at the Hague or by special tribunal. The resolution provides that the president be requested to open diplomatic negotiations with Great Britain with a view of making a special agreement for an impartial international tribunal for arbitration and for the submission to it of the differences between the countries.

Passage of this resolution would require only a majority in the senate, but to ratify the special agreement for the court would require a two-thirds vote in the senate. Even senators who have favored arbitration have declared that it would be impossible to obtain the votes to ratify this agreement. The senate plenary session today on the repeal bill and report of the seven hours it was in session to debate. If leaders carry out their plan to keep the measure constantly before the senate, even the arbitration resolution may not delay the tolls longer than next week.

Senator Vardaman's speech attracted much attention and part of it was heard by a score of members of the house. He criticized President Wilson for failing to keep the pledges of the Baltimore platform, and referred to one of the president's speeches in which he said the Democratic platform was not molasses to catch flies with.

Platform Pledge Sacred. "I trust," he added, "that it will not be out of place for me to suggest that it becomes the duty of the president to see that the interests of the American people are not thus to be caught by somebody else's molasses."

Declaring that he regarded a platform pledge as binding as the oath of office, Senator Vardaman continued: "The idea of any one human being, however great in his own conceits or wise in the estimation of others, imagining that he can do as he pleases."

PROGRESSIVES TO GIVE BANQUET TO COSTIGAN

Party Candidate for Governor to Be Entertained in Denver Monday on Return From East

Edward P. Costigan, Progressive candidate for governor of Colorado this fall, will be tendered a banquet at the Adams hotel, Denver, next Monday night according to advices received yesterday by John A. Weir, chairman of the El Paso county Progressive organization. Mr. Costigan will return from the Denver public schools Monday from the east where he and other Progressives conferred with Colonel Roosevelt regarding the Colorado situation. It is expected that Mr. Costigan will hear a message from Roosevelt to Colorado Progressives and that he will outline the platform upon which he will ask the nomination for governor. A number of Progressives from El Paso county will attend the banquet.

through New York on his way to the Canadian Rockies, predicted that the tactics of the militant suffragettes in England will ultimately result in the lynching of some of their leaders.

ing that he has the power to oblige himself from such a pledge in order to substitute some theory of his own in place of it is a heresy in political religion in the United States which is now being preached and practiced by the leaders of the Democratic party for the first time. It may be treason to the crown, but I cannot approve it. I will not subscribe to such a doctrine.

The Mississippi senator was severe in his criticism of Senator Root, whose speech in January, 1913, he said, reopened the tolls exemption question. "It strikes me," he said, "that the Democratic party has fallen upon evil times. Its poverty of leadership has become pathetic when it has to rely upon the distinguished senator from New York (Mr. Root)—the estate, restoration, and the lawyer whose professional career is distinguished by his successful defense of predatory interests and the malefactors of great wealth; this erudite, radical exponent of the Hamilton theory of government.

Cannot Repudiate Promises.

It is unfortunate, indeed, for the Democracy that this distinguished, able, distinguished and great in certain lines, should become the leader and followed by the adherents of the party of Jefferson and Jackson—that party which has held sacred the rights of the people, which stands for the preservation of the constitution, the dignity of labor, the equality of Anglo-Saxon manhood and the sanctity of the platform promise.

Think of Bryan and Root pulling together shoulder to shoulder for the moral and mental uplift of the American people and the salvation of our national honor.

Does any senator imagine that the reputation of platform promises will be overlooked and forgotten by the people? The distinguished senator from New York tells us, "Will the right think for us to do?" Will the expediency of the appeal of the distinguished senator so away the publicity that they will forget the exhortations which Secretary Bryan gave to the violators of platform promises in his memorable address to the Pennsylvania legislature on May 13, 1913?

The Twenty Year Test.

"Some twenty years ago I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Geo. W. Ardner, publisher of the Enterprise, Aberdeen, Md. "I discovered that it was a quick and safe cure for diarrhoea. Since then no one can sell me anything said to be 'just as good.' During all these years I have used it and recommended it many times, and it has never disappointed anyone." For sale by all dealers.

Directors of New Haven Now Direct Elton Testifies

WASHINGTON, June 3.—James S. Elton of Waterbury, Conn., and William Skinner of Holyoke, Mass., directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, testified today before the interstate commerce commission at its investigation into the affairs of the road.

Mr. Elton testified the directors of the New Haven were not now influenced so much by one or two men, like J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. Mellen, as they formerly were. He said the "directors" now directed "things," and learned a great many things. He added that President Elliott was more deliberate than Mr. Mellen and did not "rush them off their feet."

Operators of West Virginia Ask U. S. to Investigate Strike

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 3.—United States Senators William E. Chilton and Nathan Goff of West Virginia wired from Washington tonight asking the coal operators of the Kanawha valley fields for additional data concerning the strike situation. The telegram from the senators was in response to one sent yesterday by the coal operators to President Wilson, Secretary Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds, urging an early federal investigation of conditions in the field, where 3,000 men are on strike.

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America today expressed a willingness to place the dispute before any kind of a tribunal that is agreeable to the operators. They deny there is danger of violence.

"WHITE WOLF," NOTORIOUS BRIGAND, BURNS NINGCHOW

PEKIN, June 3.—A dispatch from Lanchow, province of Kanan, reports that "White Wolf," the notorious brigand, has landed and set fire to the town of Ningchow. All missionaries and Americans are safe, but the Christian alliance station was burned.

LOVETT CRITICISES ANTITRUST MEASURE TO TRY TO PREVENT U. P. EXTRA DIVIDEND

Shouldn't Legislate on Theory That All Railroads Are Dishonest, He Says

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Two railroad presidents and one railroad lawyer spent five hours today in pointing out to the senate interstate commerce commission many objections they have found to features of the antitrust bills now before congress which vitally affect common carriers. The railroad men agreed that there seemed to be a demand, and possibly there was a need, for legislation designed to prevent evils that have appeared in railroad affairs in the past, but they criticized the methods proposed in the bill for their correction.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, president of the Union Pacific, E. P. Ripley, president of the Atchafalpa, Tereka and Santa Fe and A. H. Harbo, general counsel for the New York Central, were the speakers. Other railroad men will appear tomorrow.

Members of the committee evidently were in sympathy today with some of the views expressed. Senator Cummings said that the railroad securities bill, which is now before the house, went far toward obliterating all lines between private and public ownership of interstate railroads.

"There is no more reason to legislate on the theory that all railroads are dishonest than there is to say that because burglars operate after dark nobody shall be allowed out at night," was the way Judge Lovett summed up his criticisms. Judge Lovett objected to the provision prohibiting interlocking directors and said, as the section now is framed, it would forbid the same director serving on a parent and a subsidiary company. This, he said, was not advisable and not necessary to get at the evil, although he did not object to a prohibition against interlocking where the roads to be served by the director were found to be competing within the meaning of the Sherman antitrust act.

Judge Lovett doubted the wisdom of giving to the interstate commerce commission broad powers over the issue of railroad securities. He said the "recently" of securing such approval would disturb the railroads market for securities and lead the commission down with work. Full publicity for the purpose of any security issues, made after issue, he suggested, would suffice for safeguarding the public. He said that the bill would render inoperative many of the corporate powers given railroads by the states and doubted the right of congress to take away such powers.

One Convicted, One Freed on Charge of Fraud in Land Deal

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—The trial of G. P. and C. P. Bowers, father and son, charged with having used the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of banana lands near Tampico, Mexico, resulted today in a judgment in the United States district court acquitting the elder and convicting the younger man.

Attorneys for the convicted man announced their intention of appealing and sentence was deferred. The two men were indicted after an extended investigation of their land brokerage concern known as C. P. Bowers & Co. with headquarters in Los Angeles. Indicted with them was the secretary of the company, Miss Helen Myers, an actress, but charges against her were dropped, and she appeared as the principal government witness against the two men, who were said to have netted $35,000 through their operations.

The Bowers were well known in Miami, Fla., where the older man formerly lived.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD, who gave attorney to the late J. Pierpont Morgan, has announced that he would waive immunity in order to testify at the interstate commerce commission hearing of the affairs of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, so as to have an opportunity of expressing his side of affairs, which he believes to have been misrepresented by former President Mellen while on the stand. Ledyard, it is believed, is desirous of denying Mellen's declarations as to the high-handed manner of the late Mr. Morgan in directing the affairs of the New Haven.

TO TRY TO PREVENT U. P. EXTRA DIVIDEND

Utah Shippers Petition Governor Spry to Aid in Heading It Off

SALT LAKE CITY, June 3.—The Commercial Club Traffic Bureau, an organization of shippers, petitioned Governor Spry today for aid in heading off an extra dividend ordered by the Union Pacific Railroad company, a Utah corporation. The dividend, as ordered, splits the amount of the road's common stock, about $75,000,000 in common and preferred, into more & Ohio railroad stock, owned by the road. A cash dividend of three dollars per share of common stock also is involved.

The shippers position is that the dividend will result eventually in the imposition of an undue burden on the people of the state, in the form of increased freight charges and the governor is asked to direct an investigation by the attorney general, with a view to stopping the dividend, if it is true. Members of the bureau, it is set forth, have advised that any action through the department of justice.

Most of the Baltimore & Ohio stock was received by the Union Pacific in the so-called Southern Pacific-Union Pacific unmerging when, under a scheme devised by the attorney general and approved by the courts, the Union Pacific took Baltimore & Ohio stock from the Pennsylvania railroad in exchange for part of its Southern Pacific holdings. This is the stock it now purposes turning over to its common stockholders in the form of an extra dividend, which was ordered January 8, 1914.

The shippers charge that the railroad, in declaring the dividend, performed an act equivalent to paying a dividend with the proceeds of a bond issue. They carry their case back to the $100,000,000 bond issue of the railroad about 18 years ago and contend that the amount proposed to be distributed in dividends should be used instead to retire bonds.

SLAYERS OF CUBAN CHIEF OF POLICE GET 12 YEARS

Third Member of Party Which Shot Down Official Fined for Discharging Firearms

HAVANA, June 3.—Gen. Ernesto Asbert, former governor of Havana province and Eugenio Arias, a former member of the house of representatives, were today sentenced to 12 years imprisonment for the killing of July 1913 of Gen. Armando Rivero, chief of the national police.

Senator Nivaldo Morales, who was with the others at the time of the killing, was convicted on two charges, firing a shot in the street and carrying a revolver without a license. A fine was imposed.

Police Captain Emilio Campina, whom the defendants accused of attempting to shoot them, was acquitted. In view of possible risings, when the verdict was announced machine guns had been placed near the jail and police guards were doubled.

The shooting of General Rivero occurred on the evening of July 7, 1913, in the most crowded portion of the Prado. General Rivero had stopped his carriage in front of the Asbert club, a political club which had been closed, and had caused the arrest of the doorkeeper, Asbert, Morales and Arias, who were in an automobile about the same time and a heated dispute arose, followed by many shots. The chief of police fell badly wounded and died two days later.

82-YEAR-OLD PRISONER, SERVED 25 YEARS, DIES OF JOY AT HIS PAROLE

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 3.—Davy Truax, 82 years old, died of joy at his parole, his friends said, at the state prison here today. "Davy" had been in prison 25 years at a life sentence for killing an inmate of the Soldiers' home at Dodge City, Ia. Truax believed he would be released some day, and had saved $150 that he might not go to a pauper's grave. Yesterday the old man's faith was confirmed when he was notified that he had been paroled. He sat in the prison office today waiting for the car which would take him away.

When the car drew up, friends turned to tell the veteran he must leave them. He sat motionless. The doctor said "Davy" had died of heart disease.

TELLING THE PUBLIC

ONE cannot live long in this world without learning something new. And even those who are most settled in their old-fashioned ideas are having to accept the order of things as they are. This is true of many of the corporations of the country. They awoke a few years ago to a realization of the fact that the world has taken on a new view of them and no longer regards a chartered public institution in the "be damned" way that William H. Vanderbilt used to express himself concerning the public.

Then followed the day of the press agent, when the corporations decided to take the public into their confidence. The managers of these corporations were for the most part clever men, who realized that deceit and half measures would be injurious rather than helpful, so they were honest with the public and printed facts. And now they are using their publicity departments to coax and educate the people into giving them what formerly they bought in legislative halls and elsewhere. It is a fortunate attitude for everyone concerned.

These thoughts are pertinent to the "Trolley Talks" that the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company has been running in the local papers for nearly a month. These "Talks" have been a mild sensation. The public rather gasped when the first one appeared, for it had never been the policy of the managers of the Stratton estate and the street car company to shout their affairs from the housetops. There was some reason for that reticence, however, for in rehabilitating the estate to the uses of a splendid philanthropy the executives went through the most trying ordeal that the executives of any estate in this country ever faced, and they could not make the public their confidante. They faced a great deal of criticism, for the people felt that the estate was more than half a public affair. Happily that period is in the past.

Without any other motive whatever than a desire to show the public something of the affairs of the company, the "Talks" were started. They have been immensely successful in that they have drawn out discussion, suggestions, and a very much better feeling. Many a man who used to think he was being robbed, is paying his double fare now with some satisfaction because he understands the reason for it.

It is the age of publicity, and anyone who disregards the fact is bound to suffer the consequences of being behind the times.

ON THE DEFENDANT'S SIDE

THEY have a new kind of court officer at Los Angeles, who is proving a great success. It is the public defender, who acts for the criminal and the poor as does the state prosecutor for the people. He is under salary and is a competent, respected lawyer.

In California, as in other states, a person charged with crime who has no means with which to employ an attorney can have the presiding judge appoint one for him. There are objections to this in that the appointees usually are young lawyers without experience or experienced lawyers who have not been successful. The successful lawyer drawing big fees from clients avoids these appointments, because the pay is nominal.

Defended in this indifferent way the accused finds himself prosecuted by an able attorney under good pay. With the Los Angeles system he is defended by a competent attorney properly paid.

The public defender has a still larger duty in civil cases for the poor. A very short experience has shown that the experiment is proving salutary. Vultures who prey on the very poor—usurers and those who withhold wages knowing that the employee is too poor to sue—are being driven to other feeding grounds.

The theory of our law is that a man is innocent until the state proves him guilty, but the one charged starts with a strong handicap, for the human mind is so constituted that the very fact of arrest acts against one. In recent times in the larger cities it has become the practice of the prosecution to try its cases in public prints before it does so in the courts. Day by day, up to the hour of trial, the things that the prosecuting witnesses will testify to are fed out to the press, thus raising a presumption of guilt in the public mind. The Becker case was a conspicuous example of this.

The defendant cannot meet this sort of thing because he may not make known his defense before hand. At least it usually is impractical. The practice is a handicap that he should not have to meet, and Samuel Untermyer has recently denounced it as a scandal to the bar.

HINDUS SAIL AWAY

ENGLAND has a difficult situation to solve in the question of admitting Hindus to Canada, a situation growing out of the big and unwieldy way in which the Empire is spread "from sun to sun," as it has been expressed poetically. India is a part of the Empire and Canada is a part of the Empire, and all the people of both countries are citizens.

Canada has barred the Hindus, who are coming in large numbers to work in the northwest, because the people take the same stand toward Asiatic labor that our Pacific coast states do. A rich Hindu recently brought over a shipload of his countrymen and tried to make a test case of the matter, claiming that a citizen of the Empire should have the right to go to any part of that Empire. Now he has given up the struggle and sailed away in a ship with a cargo of human freight practically denied a flag or a country.

For some time past thinking Englishmen have been afraid of the awakening monster in India. The East Indians are being educated, and educating a down-trodden man to a knowledge of his position makes a radical of him. The hordes in India that have submitted pacifically to British rule are beginning to grumble, and the fact that they are learning to immigrate is most significant. It will not help matters when the news spreads that East Indians have not full citizenship in the Empire.

The new Albanian king rules in town during the day, but sleeps on a foreign warship at night to keep his loving subjects from rough housing him. The king business is nothing like it used to be.

THROTTLING THE PRESS.
To the Editor of The Gazette:
I have looked over the Gazette and other newspapers for the name of the French car that won the Indianapolis speedway contest on Saturday last, but have not been successful in finding it.

I believe this throttling of the press (for I can see no other reason for the omission than that it was a foreign car) is not only unfair to the foreign manufacturers who send their machines here to compete with ours, but it is unjust to the followers of the sport who look for, and feel entitled to, such information.

The American-made automobile has given a good account of itself and proven its superiority over foreign makes on many occasions, and there is no need for the "hovers higher up" to resort to such tactics as they have in this instance.

HOME RULE IN IRELAND.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
Your leading editorial in Sunday's Gazette, entitled "Not a Head Broken," is so misleading to anyone who does not know the facts that I hope you will allow me to amplify the statements you make in it. The home rule bill has passed its third reading in the house of commons, but it passed on the strength of an undertaking on the part of the government to immediately introduce an amending bill which is to exclude either the whole of Ulster, or at any rate, what are known as "the six homogeneous counties." Everyone now knows, even those who have been blindly inveighing against the "sin soldiers of Ulster with their wooden guns," that Ulster can only be driven out of the Union by bayonet, or, in other words, by resorting to civil war. The country will not submit to a home rule bill, and even if such a catastrophe should happen the party siding with Ulster would inevitably be the stronger.

Another misleading inference from your article is that Sir Edward Carson is an "aristocrat." Sir Edward Carson is not an aristocrat in the sense in which you use the word. He has risen to a high place as a lawyer on his own merits. He is an Irishman, and even his bitterest enemies recognize his patriotism, as is clearly shown by the respect with which he is treated even in the infamously atmosphere which has recently been the order of the day in the house of commons.

Union: get out and manage your own affairs—we don't want to be bothered with you any further."
JAMES I. COWAN.

MORE TICKETS

To the Editor of The Gazette:
I read a few days ago in your paper an article which seemed to me very timely. It was in regard to the issuing by the street car company of ticket books containing 25 tickets for $1. I believe it would be of very great benefit to the general public, and in the long run a decided benefit to the company. The increased use of tickets would save the conductors' time and trouble, a greater number of people would make use of the street cars, and those who do ride often would make still greater use of the cars. It is easy to use up a book of tickets. It would be an all-around benefit to all concerned.

DUST

BY GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Shanty"

Dust is produced by the wear and tear on the earth. This wear and tear is produced by heat, frost, rain, and civilization. Mankind, since he has invented the automobile and many other forms of transportation, has been very hard upon the earth. It is estimated that each day man in his activities rubs enough of the earth into dust to fill a thousand steamships. At this rate, allowing for the increase of humanity and the improvements in speed and efficiency of all kinds, the earth will in the course of 1,000,000,000,000 years be worn down into a ball the size of a horse chestnut. This will surely give us time to settle the difficult question to the satisfaction of all and the prospect is not encouraging.

"When the caller can write her name on the piano with her forefinger while waiting for her hostess."

and outside of leaves, aeroplanes and daily newspapers is about the only inert object which can fly. A strong wind on a hot summer day when collect thousands of tons of dust and distribute it evenly upon the furniture of a million homes. Dust can get into a house when a book agent would give up in despair. It cannot be kept out even by fly screens. Many cities boast about the way real estate is rising within their borders, but those cities in which the real estate rises to the height of 10 stories on every summer afternoon and leaves a gritty feeling between the molars of the citizen are not popular with the traveler.

Dust is a great nuisance and makes housekeeping old before their time. However, the western people have conserved it and make it work. After people have conserved it and make it work, they use the dry-farmer has planted his crop and has watered it, he manufactures a thick coat of dust and spreads it over his crop where it keeps the moisture from coming out and stops with the wind. When a rain comes along and spoils a western farmer's lovely dust, he is very indignant because he has to make it all over again.

Dust is also used as a gauge of good housekeeping. When the caller can write her name on the piano with her forefinger while waiting for her hostess, she never has quite the same respect for that woman again.

Vicious Gossip

BY RUTH CAMERON

One of the most vicious kinds of gossip is that which formulates fallible opinions about the causes of events in other people's lives, and then states these opinions as facts.

For instance, we were talking about not going the other day, and someone said, "I knew a girl who died from taking too many hot baths." "Did you, really?" we asked. "What was it?" "The name was given," she said. "I knew her," said someone else, "and I never knew that was what caused her death. I thought it was the drink, or the overwork." "Oh, no," said the first woman, "she used to take those terrible hot baths, and finally she died." "What did the doctor say?" "I don't know, but that was evidently the reason. What she took a very hot bath almost every night, and you know how weakening that is."

It was perfectly evident that this woman had no grounds for her statement beyond her own opinion. And yet, instead of saying, "I think so, and so," she stated boldly as a fact, giving the impression that she had definite information on the subject.

Again, I once heard that a certain girl had broken her engagement because she discovered that her fiancé went around with other women. Investigation proved that the sole grounds for the statement were that E. was of a very jealous disposition; that her fiancé had been seen on the street two or three times with another woman (a box by the way, afterwards proved to be his sister-in-law), and that the engagement had been broken very suddenly.

On this ephemeral foundation some kind friend had built the hypothesis that the break must have been caused by the discovery that the fiancé went around with other women.

It was stated that this merely was a hypothesis, it would have been bad enough, but she didn't. She stated it as a fact. In reality, the engagement was broken because the girl had found she no longer cared for her fiancé. And the break, although sudden enough to others, had been of gradual growth.

Next worst to formulating your own hypothesis on people as fact, is helping to pass on other people's opinions as fact, is helping to pass on other people's opinions as fact.

The Mexican Situation

WHY DID OUR BOYS DIE AT VERA CRUZ?

From the New York American.
Two shiploads of modern arms and munitions of war have been landed in Mexico by German steamships. Another cargo of weapons from Japan is reported to be on the point of landing on the west coast. The nearest approach to any explanation of this failure of the administration to prevent the landing of these arms, probably for sale against our own soldiers, is the statement of "one close to President Wilson," who said "Well, they will never get a chance to use them."

Always excusing present latitude and neglect by vague promises of vigorous action yet to come. That has been the characteristic of the Wilson-Mexican policy since its inception. The only act of vigorous action of American rights and power, the one step that for a time aroused the nation to enthusiasm and even encouraged belief in the efficiency of the administration, was the seizure of Vera Cruz.

So swiftly, so unexpectedly, was that step taken that the people were first amazed, then stirred with patriotic fervor. The grant of the right to use the armed forces of the United States, asked by the president, was still being delayed in the senate when the stroke at Vera Cruz was delivered.

It is plain that the administration has been so slow in its action that the Mexican revolution has been able to turn the tide. The bodies of our dead were brought home, and in a solemn ceremony the president himself eulogized their heroic deeds and promised the nation that they had not died in vain.

But, despite his promise without challenge or interference from this government, the arms that had caused the battle were taken in another port, landed at Huertia. This time, in the hands of Huertia's forces.

Meantime the administration is giving out daily advice from Washington which he daily denies, and is playing at mediation at Niagara Falls while the wily wot at the Mexican capital is raking Europe and Japan for more arms with which to emphasize his defiance of the government he has so long flouted.

The state department gives out the impression that the United States was powerless to prevent the landing of these arms, as its hands are tied by the mediation proceedings. If that be true, then the acceptance of mediation was another diplomatic triumph for Huertia, another evidence of the incredible incompetence of Bryan.

Surely to engage in an expedition which will cost $10,000,000 and has already cost 16 lives in order to prevent the landing of arms for the Huertia, and then to enter upon an armistice which permits him to acquire arms at will as he pleases, and to place a piece of governmental stupidity and incompetence at the world has ever known.

WITH HONOR

From the Nebraska State Journal.
Much of the news from the mediators is contradictory, but there seems to be no doubt that progress is being made toward the peaceful elimination of General Huertia. All he seems to be demanding at present is an opportunity to retire with safety and dignity. This will be much better all around than the carnival of blood and violence that would certainly follow the entrance of the Constitutionalists into Mexico City as conquerors. Civilization can hardly afford to have Huertia fall in that fashion, when it is possible to pass the government over to somebody else by peaceful means.

COMMENTS

From the Dallas News.
Does the report from Mexico that Huertia will die in the last days mean that he is making preparations to retire to Panama?

From the Kansas City Journal.
Who is going to enforce the decision of the A. B. C. mediation board? No doubt. Then what's the use of all the palaver?

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
Reading the newspaper papers of the administration one gains the impression that Villa's career is always well-traced as of soldiers, while the editorial staffs of a bunch of cowardly politicians are too busy to have Huertia fall in that fashion, when it is possible to pass the government over to somebody else by peaceful means.

From the New York American.
Speak up now, quick! What are the mediators mediating?

From the Washington Star.
Possibly diplomacy will adopt the term "near-war" to describe transactions in Mexico.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
Experts say that the greatest dangers to American soldiers in Mexico will be from disease. Either that or ennui.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.
This wedding one eye on Washington and the other on Mexico is rapidly making us cross-eyed.

From the Philadelphia American.
Mediation halted for a garden party. Next a pink tea, and after that Villa will give a soiree in Mexico City.

R. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune.
We read that Huertia, Carranza and Zapata must be eliminated. Simple, very. All that is required is the assent of the gentlemen mentioned to the w. k. process of elimination.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
Villa says he won't fall out with the United States. Villa takes too much for granted. If Mr. Wilson has back of him, not the United States.

PUNCH HOLES IN THE POTATOES

If you do not eat potatoes, you should. They prevent scurvy in the winter and furnish energy all the year around. They supply a something needed when meat is eaten. But cook them right. If to be boiled, leave the jackets on, punch holes in them, and throw them at once into boiling water.

Experiments conducted by Langworthy of the department of agriculture showed that potatoes put in cold water at the start lost almost twice as much protein (15.8 per cent) as when plunged at once into boiling water (8.2 per cent). Potatoes boiled in their jackets lost only 1 per cent of their protein and a little over 3 per cent of their ash without regard to the temperature of the water in which they were started to cook. When cooked in this way they should have a small section removed at each end, or a ring pared around the middle, so that the moisture may escape, preventing the cooked potato from becoming soggy on standing.

Some experiments conducted by Butler, Morrison and Boll in the factors affecting the culinary quality of potatoes brought out the following points: Potatoes high in water content are less tasty than those of a relatively low water content. Fried potatoes are regarded as of better quality than those cooked by any other method, while the quality of boiled or steamed potatoes is about the same.

Mealiness in a potato is due to the separation of the cells in cooking rather than to disintegration due to the swelling of the starch grains. Langworthy tells how to judge a good meaty potato. "It should feel firm when pressed in the hand. If cut, it should separate cleanly under the knife and be of even density throughout. The cells should be large and soft. It will make a soggy mass, full of holes in the center, when cooked."

After pouring water off potatoes that have finished cooking, the kettle containing them should be set back on the fire for a minute and the contents shaken, thus drying up the small amount of water left after pouring off. This makes the potatoes dry and mealy and if they have to stand being served, prevents soginess.

Old potatoes which have sprouted should have the flesh around the sprouts carefully cut away, as a poisonous substance, solanine, is more commonly found in this portion of the potato. New potatoes are not so mealy as old potatoes, as they contain a larger proportion of protein to starch.

Sweet potatoes contain on an average about 9 per cent less water and 9 per cent more carbohydrates than white (Irish). Those of medium size and regular shape are to be preferred, as they cook more evenly.

According to experiments reported from Japan, 98 per cent of the carbohydrates of sweet potatoes are digested, about the same as in the case of white (Irish) potatoes. The values for protein were variable, but on the whole lower than for protein of white potatoes.

REPLY.
It is better to omit medicine almost entirely.

"Is it a good plan to drink several glasses of water before breakfast?"

REPLY.
Is drinking water at bedtime just as beneficial as taking it before breakfast?

REPLY.
Does drinking coffee or tea moderately make any difference?

REPLY.
Have no nausea, but a slight pain much of the time?

REPLY.
Ordinary cases of stomach trouble yield to simple treatment. The first essential is to diminish the amount of food materially, say one-half. The second to overcome constipation. The third to get one's mind away from his digestion and also away from any other unpleasant subject. Use glass water before breakfast. In an excellent plan. Drinking water at bedtime is not to take the place of drinking it in the morning. Drinking warm water is proper if one cares for it.

REPLY.
In some cases the stomach has trouble with coffee and tea. Try your stomach by omitting them for awhile.

REPLY.
Finally, I note the statement that you have a slight pain much of the time. It is a sign of a disturbed stomach. Have your physician investigate.

GOUTER.
M. E. C. writes: "What is the name of the gouter with feet that cool around the windpipe? Is it exophthalmos? What is a dumbbell gouter? Is it severe breaking out of the liver ever caused by exophthalmos gouter?"

REPLY.
"Would the same remedy apply as in an ordinary case of liver?"

REPLY.
Exophthalmic gouter is the kind in which the eyeballs project and show a good deal of the white. The thyroid is composed of two lobes united by a band. One lobe is in front of the neck. The other is in front of the two lateral lobes were enlarged the gouter would resemble a dumbbell.

REPLY.
I judge in your first question you refer to dumbbell gouter.

REPLY.
Gouter could contribute somewhat, though indirectly, to liver.

English papers announce that the world's biggest ocean liner is to be built at Belfast. It will be of 36,000 tons, whereas the Titanic is of 33,000 tons. The Kaiser's ship, the Britannia, is of 24,000 tons. The Aquitania is of 20,000 and the Olympic 26,100 tons. Con-and Sharp reports that the Britannia was launched at Belfast on February 28. For safety it will have 48 of the largest lifeboats yet made, two of them fitted with powerful engines.

THE MINISTER WAS PUZZLED
From Lippincott's.
At a marriage service performed some time ago in a little country church in Georgia, when the minister said in a solemn tone: "Will you have this man to be thy wedded husband?" Instead of the woman answering for herself, a loud male voice answered: "I will."
The minister looked up, very much perplexed, and paused. He repeated the sentence and again the same loud voice answered: "I will."
Again the minister looked up, surprised, not knowing what to make of it, when one of the groomsmen at the end of the row said:
"She is dead. I am answering for her."
In 20 generations every person has had 131,072 direct ancestors.

PRINCE SELLS ROYAL LETTERS

From Le Cri de Paris.
The queen of England is selling her children royal letters of the sacred economy. One of these letters, received by an education in one of the most famous of the colleges of England has from her as an allowance for his amusement the modest sum of £1. Now the young prince is in daily association with the sons of British aristocracy who receive from their parents a much more liberal allowance, and the little prince is greatly mortified at the parsimony to which he is condemned.
He has sought various means to remedy this deplorable situation. Finally he had an ingenious idea. He put on sale the intimate letters he had received from his father and mother, and the royal signatures made them sell at a good price. He expended these sums thus acquired quite lawfully. His mother was astonished that his monthly allowance should permit him to live in such luxury. She soon learned how her son had been procuring this supplementary budget, and the circulation that had been given these precious autographs. Hereafter the letters addressed to the son will be typewritten and signed with a pseudonym.

GLAD TO MEET LORD BYRON

From the Kansas City Times.
When W. D. Howells, the famous American writer, was editing an American magazine, a young man called on him at the office and offered him a poem. Mr. Howells read the poem and thought it was good. But somehow it seemed rather familiar.
"Did you write this unaided?" he asked.
"I did," replied the youthful poet. "I wrote every line of it."
"Then I am very glad to meet you," Lord Byron, said Mr. Howells. "But I was under the impression that you had died some years ago."

The total population of the world is now estimated at 1,700,000,000. This is based on the most recent census, which all civilized countries now take, with a careful estimate of the number of inhabitants of uncivilized lands. The proportion of the sexes is known for 1,035,000,000 of these, the ratio being 1,000 males to 990 females.

WALL PAPER ANCIENT

From the Kansas City Journal.
Wall hangings have been used for the covering up and embellishment of wall surfaces from the earliest times. Probably the first of the kind were skins of beasts. Then with the introduction of weaving came, wooden and fibrous cloths plain or embellished by needlework or painting, says the Practical Decorator. Leather was a further development, doubtless suggested by its greater durability and the ease with which it could be cleaned. Later came tapestry, stamped and embroidered velvets, silks and rich stuffs of other material.
The use of hangings doubtless was originally suggested by the necessity of keeping out drafts and colds in the rudely fashioned buildings of early date and the dwellers in tents used and still use them for this purpose, as is exemplified to the present day by the nomadic tribes of the Sudan.

A DECADE OF AMERICAN MEDICAL ADVANCE

Butler J. Henderson, in Harper's Magazine.
The last ten years will always figure largely in the history of American medicine, because it was in that period that the country assumed a foremost position as a headquarters for medical research. In 1902 there was not a single institution of the kind in the United States. England had its Lister Institute, Germany its Institute for Infectious Diseases, France its Pasteur Institute, Russia the Robt. Military Institute of St. Petersburg. It was not until the founding of the Rockefeller Institute, however, that America had anything comparable with them. Ten years ago not a dollar was spent in Chicago on independent studies of this kind; now Chicago has four flourishing research laboratories. Probably the Rockefeller Institute in New York can show the largest harvest. It has given the world Dr. Simon Flexner's cure for cerebro-spinal meningitis, Dr. Alexis Carrel's surgery of the arteries, his demonstration of the possibility of transplanting organs from one body to another, and his method of growing cells indefinitely outside the body. These latter experiments have entirely changed modern conceptions of life and death—have even lent some authority to the idea, with which so many imaginations have busied themselves, that the worn-out, senile human frame itself may some time be restored to youth. Dr. Samuel J. Meltzer's method of intratracheal insufflation, already referred to in the use of anesthetics, is the valuable in surgery, in that, for the first time, it has been open to the surgeon the entire chest cavity—lungs, heart, esophagus. Dr. Hideo Noguchi has worked out a new skin reaction, far simpler than the Wasserman, for the diagnosis of syphilis. The same investigator has also discovered something which Pasteur sought for in vain—the organism that causes hydrophobia. Only the other day Dr. Flexner announced the discovery of that organism which scores of scientists here and in Europe have been seeking for the last six years—the one that causes poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis.
Experts are now pointing out the danger of putting too much power into light automobiles.

YOUNG AMAZON WITH REBEL ARMY

This is one of the many girls who fought in the victorious rebel army during the siege of Tampico. This photograph was taken in Tampico after the occupation of the city by Gen. Pablo Gonzalez's army.—Copyright by International News Service.

The necessity for a cheaper material than was in current use was evidently felt, as no sooner was paper invented than it was used for the purpose of wall decoration.

The first wall papers were introduced into England by William of Orange and the first attempt at their manufacture in that country followed immediately. They were, of course, made in sheets, as the ability to make paper in continuous rolls was not acquired till later.

If you have the itch, don't scratch. It does not cure the trouble and makes the skin bleed. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. Rub it in gently on the affected parts. It relieves itching instantly and a few applications removes the cause, thus performing a permanent cure. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Adv.
